Poems 1962 2012 Louise Gluck

I read and read and re-read Louise Gluck since discovering her through the Hamilton Public Library sometime in 2005. Her poetry just blows me away, a many-layered onion that smells more like a rose. hahahaha Yeah, I love Weezy Gluck. The first poem I ever read by Gluck was "Gretel In Darkness": This is the world we wanted.

Poems 1962-2012 by Louise Glück - Books on Google Play

It is the astonishment of Louise Glück's poetry that it resists collection. With each successive book her drive to leave behind what came before has grown more fierce, the force of her gaze fixed on what has yet to be imagined. She invented a form to accommodate this need, the book-length sequence of poems, like a landscape seen from above, a novel with lacunae opening onto the unspeakable.

Over at the Los Angeles Review of Books, Michael Robbins reviews Louise Glück's Poems 1962-2012, observing that "Glück is as important and influential a poet as we have in America, a tagline whose strangeness deepens the more one reads her." And indeed Robbins draws out the strangeness in Glück's lifework, the good and the bad. Now that we can read Glück's poetry as a lifework, both her ...
