There is no better place to end our journey than to end it on the last great day of all creation, the very beginning and ending point of all mankind--the Eighth Day. As the Millennial reign of Messiah comes to a close and the New Jerusalem comes down, we see the real purpose behind it all, the merging of two worlds into one, an eternal Garden paradise with the Word of God once again walking among His people.

The "eighth day" (in a seven-day week cycle) denotes new creation--one and eight representing creation and new creation. In his disputation with Faustus, Augustine explained the change of signs from circumcision to baptism, and the change of the Sabbath day from the seventh to the eight, by suggesting that the "eighth day" in the Old Testament carried with it the idea of new creation ...
